ABSTRACT

Human's way of life from birth to death continues on the basis of various customs and rituals. Many of these rituals are closely related to the changes in the seasons of the year, space, and time that they are studied as calendar ceremonies.

Activity in society develops in connection with changes in nature, the change of periods, the rising and setting of the sun, the change of the phases of the Moon. Man has also adapted and strengthened the rituals together with adapting his activities to the rhythm of the nature.
