ABSTRACT

The use of visual aids in the learning process is especially important for the thorough acquisition of knowledge. They expand and improve when combined with the principle of demonstration in the educational process. The role of the demonstration method in the learning process is unique, which ensures the effectiveness of the lesson. It is known that the exhibition tools are used in the educational process for various didactic purposes, in particular, as a teaching aid, as a methodical manual, as a means of stimulating thinking in practical work, enhancing the ability to learn orally.
