

IMPROVING THE METHODOLOGY OF TEACHING THE TOPIC OF NONMETAL OF THE 8TH GRADE IN THE E-LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

Ergashev Vahob Ergashevich*

*Researcher,
Tashkent Region Lower Chirchik Specialized Presidential School,
Tashkent, UZBEKISTAN
Email id: mansurxurramov7@gmail.com

DOI: 10.5958/2278-4853.2022.00303.2

ABSTRACT

The use of pedagogical technologies in the process of teaching chemistry has a positive effect on the effectiveness of teaching. Pedagogical technologies can be applied to the process of teaching these subjects in order to increase the level of students' knowledge and increase their interest in the lesson in the process of teaching halogens in inorganic chemistry.

KEYWORDS: Pedagogical Technologies, Halogens, Expressing Hypotheses, Identifying Problems.

REFERENCES:

1. Akhlabystin A. Yu. The life of chemical ideas, 1989. - 172 b.
2. Ramsden 3. N. The beginning of modern chemistry: Pierre. from English - L. : Chemistry, 2006-784 p.
3. Kuznetsov V.I. General chemistry: development trends - higher. school, 2004-288 P.
4. Krestov G. A., Berezin B. D. Basic concepts of modern chemistry. - 2nd edition, corrected: chemistry, 2001.
5. Busev A. I., Efimov I. P. Definitions, concepts, terms in Chemistry: A Guide for students 2000. - 192 b.
6. Formanova S. B. Application of Pedagogical Technologies to the Topics of the Metals Department //Annals of the Romanian Society for Cell Biology. – 2021. – C. 5499-5509.